Leading Organizations Reap the Rewards of Modern Governance

“Modern governance is a multi-pronged system. It really is largely information-based, having a good control over the information that’s being shared, and also ensuring that the information is being maximized in its distribution, its accuracy and overall, its security. Modern governance was a goal we had for a long time, but really needed the right tool to do so. We feel we found it with Diligent.”

Jermaine Joynes

Compliance Program Manager,
CRICO/RMF

“Before we started using Diligent, out of 650 companies on a stock exchange, we were rated about 300. In three years, our ranking moved to 75. I really attribute that to the use of our Diligent software system.”

Colin Low

Chairman of The Board,
Intrado

“If we didn’t have Diligent [...] it would be an arduous task of looking through various spreadsheets, emails, historical filings, etc., searching for this information on a daily basis. Having all this information electronically and in one central location makes your life a lot easier. Instead of dealing with inefficiency and poor time management looking for information, you can answer with confidence that you have the information and that that information is correct.”
